Communications Clearinghouse

AGENDA
September 7, 2012

I. Charge of Group:

The Communications Clearinghouse is a reporting and working group primarily responsible for sharing information about and changes to current practices, policies, and procedures across the Libraries. Working subgroups will coordinate efforts on projects. The Group will plan for and accomplish strategic goals of the Libraries, discuss ongoing or routine issues in day-to-day operations, propose solutions to problems, and recommend new policies or programs that will streamline operations and/or better support academic programs. Each member of the Group will regularly report activities of other committees on which he or she serves, including university-wide committees.
