University of Arkansas Libraries
Web Development Group 10/19/12

Present: Dougherty, Ganson, Juhl, Morgan, Youngblood

Action items in Yellow.

M. Stoner Report
The small percentage of the group able to attend discussed what had been gleaned so far from perusing the report on the UA web presence from M. Stoner Associates. Juhl will schedule a more full discussion for our next meeting, when more members can be present and when everyone has had time to study the report.

Copyright.uark.edu
Juhl reported on this new "front door" requested by the campus copyright group on which Lennertz Jetton serves. The group plans to place their content into a series of LibGuides (first one is at http://uark.libguides.com/CopyrightClasses) where the content will be easy to maintain. However, the group wanted a landing page that more closely resembled the Provost’s pages.

Pryor Center
Morgan reported that the Pryor Center had contacted him about converting videos to MP4 format. Ganson asked that these requests be directed to her.

Special Collections
Everyone congratulated Youngblood and Morgan for a successful launch of the new Special Collections pages. Youngblood has plans to add new topic guides soon.

Upcoming Projects
The group discussed upcoming digitization and other projects.

Dougherty reported that most of the immediate changes had been made on the GIS pages. Morgan would like to convert the underlying structure, if not the look and feel, to a more modern style.

Juhl inquired about the new diversity page. She had received a response from Dougherty but no one else. The group agreed to publish the interim page. [done]. Morgan will ask Martha Parker for some text about the Diversity materials fund.

Two CONTENTdm projects are in the works. The first is a collaborative project with Crystal Bridges that Martha Parker is curating. It will consist of images and publications on the fruit (pomology) industry. The second is a collection of documents and images already scanned from the 40/50/100 celebration. The Parler project is also in the wings. Ganson would like to have a general meeting on CONTENTdm issues.

Next meeting: [off week] – November 9th, 2012.

Respectfully submitted,

B. Juhl
