

CALL FOR GRADUATE STUDENT SPEAKERS

In collaboration with the Graduate School and International Education, the University Libraries are launching a Graduate Student Speaker Series during the Fall 2018 semester. All graduate students are welcome to apply. Share any research or project you have done using materials from Special Collections.

The first presenter will be Ph.D. candidate Arley Ward, who will present "The Religious Right to Oppress? Gay Marriage, Slavery, Miscegenation and the History of Religious Exemptions" Thursday, Oct. 11 at 5 p.m. in MULN 130. Light refreshments will be served.
